As they were going through the principal street, about nine o clock in the evening, they heard a man across the street ring a bell, and then cry out so as to be heard a long distance: Found on North Water Street, a small pocketbook containing a ring, and money.--Fire this morning in Sconset.--Schooner Wauwinet just arrived from Boston.--Lost or strayed away this forenoon, Johnnie Sherburne, five years old. He had on a brown straw hat, blue dress, and new shoes. A suitable reward to the one who returns him to 15 Gay Street. Why, Papa, is that man crazy? No, my dear. He is the town crier. They do not have any daily paper here, and so they keep up the old custom, once common in many New England villages, of having a man go about and announce the news. In...
