(ruth) The Book of Ruth, which we are hidden to read on this Festival of Pentecost, will never lose its fascination. So long as heart responds to heart in this world, so long will that simple telling story of the heroism of Ruth and her loyalty to Naomi, continue to make its appeal to men and women. We see here constancy and devotion, belief in an ideal and fidelity to that ideal. These three women must have presented a pathetic picture as they stood alone on that country road, their ways about to part for ever, Naomi, a forlorn widow, a lonely figure bereft of her sons and going forth at her time of life to begin the world anew; her two daughters-in-law, still young women with the world before them preparing for the moment of parting. Orpah kissed her mother-in-law but Ruth clave to her. There are times in the lives of all of us when the hour is charged with a solemnity which is rich in opportunity. When a word, or a look, or a thought, can determine the future of our hopes. Such a moment was this for Ruth. She had come to the turning point of her life - how should she make her choice? Behind her in the sweet light of reminiscence is Moab, the home of her childhood, the scene of her friendships, the centre of her interests. Before her lies Israel with its dark forbidding hills, its alien faces, its unknown trials....
