Excerpt from My Heroine: A Story What histories some faces tell! Others are blank always blank in youth, still more blank in age. You wonder what four-walled life the own era of such faces can have led, that they bear no impress of struggle, none of anxiety, little of interest, still less of intellectual life. The latter is so rare, and is met with so seldom, that one ceases to look for it in women s countenances, generally the most tell tale. I am a doctor, and am naturally brought much into contact with my fellow-mortals; and though I see so many, some faces puzzle me nay, even haunt me. But to my story.
